

Some-any

I've got some fantastic things in my room:

I've got some posters on the wall.

I've got some books on my shelf.

I've got some CD-ROMs for my computer.

I've got some CDs on my CD-player.

I've got some computer games.

I've got some computer magazines.

I've got some old records.

What about your room?

Have you got any posters on the wall?

Have you got any books on the shelf?

Have you got any CD-ROMs for your computer?

Have you got any CDs on your CD-player?.

Have you got any good computer games?

Have you got any interesting computer magazines?

Have you got any good records?

Now over to you:

Ask your friend/neighbour:

Have you got any

He/she answers:

Yes, I have got some

No, I haven't got any....

(chairs, books, book shelves, rulers, rubbers, copybooks, magazines, CDs, posters, DVDs, cassettes, biros, pencils, pens, playing cards, postcards, etc.)